Zach Parise, of the New Jersey Devils, was drafted 17th overall in the 1st round of the 2003 NHL draft by the New Jersey Devils. He is a natural center although he currently plays left wing for the New Jersey Devils on the first line with teammates Jamie Langenbrunner and Travis Zajac. On November 30, 2007, in a game against the Montreal Canadiens, Parise got his first National Hockey League natural hat trick. He also holds the Devils franchise record for the fastest goal in a season-opening game, which he did just 26 seconds into the 2006-07 NHL season opener. Last season, Zach was one of six players in Devils' lineup to play in all 82 games and had points in 49 of the 82 games overall.

J.P. Parise

Jean-Paul Parise, a previous NHL left winger played for a number of different teams in his NHL career, including Boston, Toronto, Minnesota, NY Islanders, and Cleveland. In total, Parise played 14 NHL seasons, scoring 238 goals and 356 assists for 594 points. His best season statistically was the 1972-73 season, when he scored 27 goals and 75 points. Parise was also an important member of the early New York Islanders teams in the mid 1970s, and he is warmly remembered by many Islander fans for scoring the goal 11 seconds into overtime to defeat their cross-town rivals, the New York Rangers, in game three of the best of three opening playoff series following the 1974-75 campaign. He is currently the Head Coach and General Manager of the USHL Des Moines Buccaneers Junior Hockey Team.

TRAINING TO BE A CHAMPION

- Everyone wants to win – extrinsic motivation (winning – the scoreboard) captivates the attention of even the most casual fan.
- Special players, professionals, are driven by a passion to compete. Regardless of the external rewards, they are driven by their spirit to perform at their best because that is what they expect from themselves.
- Zach Parise has used that passion to compete as his trade mark at Shattuck St. Mary's, the University of North Dakota, the U.S. National Junior Team and now with the New Jersey Devils in the National Hockey League. The common thread has been his work ethic and the relentless pursuit for success.
- This week will provide players with unique insight into what it takes to be a world class competitor by experiencing first hand the mentality and detail that goes into every seconds of training.
- The camp will be divided into two teams at each level who will be competing against each other on and off the ice daily.
- Zach and JP Parise will share their thoughts on how being a successful athlete involves more than just being a good player on the ice. Off ice training, academic discipline, social responsibility, and all the ingredients of true professionals will be shared by one of the most successful hockey families in the United States.

SPECIAL note:

On Friday, August 7th, Zach and JP will be hosting a Family Game, Brunch and Question & Answer period. For those who can play hockey and wish to participate in the game, helmets and protective equipment are REQUIRED. Everyone is invited to watch their camper and cheer on his/her team.
