The Objective

- The objective of this camp is to gain an understanding of the defensive part of hockey for both defensemen and forwards.

Skills and Drills

-Your defensive responsibilities on almost every inch of ice starting with face-offs and fore-check thru the neutral zone all the way back to defensive zone and down-low responsibilities

-The importance of positioning

-One-on-one play and stick skills

-Taking away time and space from the passers and shooters

-Rotating and collapsing in your own zone

-Shot blocking

-Body position and stick position in front of the net

-Body position before giving and taking a hit

-Communications between players in order to set up certain defensive scenarios or hits

-Importance of the team

These drills will give you the unique view and perspective on solving and dealing with the majority of defensive assignments for defensemen and forwards by one of the best defensemen who ever played the game.

Scott Stevens

It would be a pleasure to invite you to my hockey camp at the Ice Vault Arena in Wayne, New Jersey. This will be my 3rd year at the Ice Vault and I look forward to sharing all I have learned during my 22 years in the NHL. I am a firm believer in the importance of positioning and we will also focus on one-on-one play, skating, and stick skills. Overall, I look forward to helping you become a better all-round player and spending a fun educational week with you at the Ice Vault.

- Captain of the NJ Devils for 13 years
- 3 time Stanley Cup Champion
- Recipient of the 2000 Conn Smythe Trophy as MVP in the Stanley Cup Playoffs
- 13 Time All Star
- Played more NHL games than any other defensemen during his last 22 seasons
- Hardest Hitting Defensemen in the NHL history
- The 6th player in the league history to reach the 1,600 games played mark.
- The 10th defenseman to post 900 career points.
- On Feb. 3, 2006, became 1st player in franchise history to have his number (4) retired
- In 2007 he was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame
- First season as Devils' assist. coach & 3rd season as the club's coaching staff.
